

Intake Process

Basic Info

This is just the rudimentary information for our scheduling and invoicing system - if the family decides to go forward with Cassels Tutoring, this allows us to create a profile on our system and book sessions as soon as tutoring is needed.

Academic History

This is an opportunity to understand the subject-specific content strengths and weaknesses as well as ancillary skills, such as time management, prioritization, and organization. This gives us a baseline of the student's performance in the course and how we can help.

Learning Style

This gives us the chance to hear about current and past individuals who've had impacts on the student's educational experience. This provides insight on strategies we can implement that parents/students know to have been successful in the past.

Personal Interests

The reality is that students are more than "learning units" - they are people with interests outside the classroom. Working with someone with those same interests can make the difference in making the tutoring experience that much more meaningful and engaging.

RECOMMENDATION

All of the information above is compiled for the purpose of making a recommendation for the type of tutoring, the specific individual who should do the tutoring, and the frequency of the tutoring.
